

The name of the academic discipline:
“Human Life Safety”

Specialty code and name	1-01 02 01 Primary Education
Year of study	4
Semester of study	7
Number of in-class academic hours:	64
Lectures	18
Seminar classes	-
Practical classes	46
Laboratory classes	-
Form of the current assessment (credit/ graded credit /exam)	credit
Number of credit points	-
Competences	To apply the basic methods of protection of the population from negative impacts of anthropogenic, man-made and natural factors, principles of rational use of natural resources and energy saving, to ensure healthy and safe working conditions.

Summary of the academic discipline:

The integrated academic discipline “Human Life Safety” includes the following subjects, which are mandatory for full-time students receiving general higher education in the Republic of Belarus: “Protection of the Population and Facilities from Emergencies”, “Radiation Safety”, “Fundamentals of Ecology”, “Fundamentals of Energy Saving”, “Labor Protection”, which are not main to this specialty.

This discipline aims to form a culture of life safety of future specialists based on the system of social norms, values and attitudes that ensure the preservation of their life, health and performance in conditions of constant interaction with the environment. As a result of studying this discipline, future specialists should receive modern theoretical knowledge about various types of emergency situations, modern weapons and methods of protecting the population and facilities from them, learn to solve problems on actions in various emergency situations, familiarize themselves with the basics of ecology, energy saving and labor protection and the legislation of the Republic of Belarus in these areas of life and be able to apply the acquired knowledge and skills in their future professional activities. The discipline “Human Life Safety” refers to additional types of training of the component of a higher education institution.